FROM THE PRIEST-IN-CHARGE

We installed larger gutters* in at the Sommer Place last spring, and it has made all the difference. At some point in between reshingling our roof (from cedar shake to composite) and wet-vac'ing our basement for the umpteenth time after a rainstorm, we finally figured out that when we re-roofed, we changed the velocity of rainwater running off it and into the gutters. We needed gutters large enough to handle the load and the velocity. Since changing them out I am pleased to report that our basement as been bone dry, even following the kind of storms that Kansas City can produce in the spring and summer.

We, who live in the moist Midwest, are generally blessed with an abundance of precipitation. Yet for all of our marvelous technology which can better predict the probability of it falling than ever before, we can do nothing to manage the process. We cannot cause the rain to fall and we cannot stop it at will. The most we can do is react to it. Grace is a lot like that. We know that it's going to happen. We can identify it when it does happen. But we certainly can't do anything to make God give it (or withhold it). All we can do is respond to it.

In baptism, we believe that God graces us with spiritual gifts. We don't earn them, they simply are given to us. It is our life-long challenge and our joy, as Christians, to put those gifts to work — to respond to the grace that is given to us. Our baptismal covenant (Book of Common Prayer, pp. 304-305) is the roadmap by which we embark on our Christian journey. To live into this covenant is to respond, day by day, to the grace of God given to us. It's a dynamic process. God gives to us, and we give back to God by continuing in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in repentance, in seeking and serving Christ in all persons, in striving for justice and peace, in respecting the dignity of every human being. Make no mistake, we don't always see its effects at first. The most effective ministry frequently happens gradually, at the grass roots level.

God gives to us, and we respond in the world in witness to God's grace and love. And it's harmful to us when we don't. I don't mean to imply that God's grace can ever objectively be harmful. However, it's no healthier for us to accumulate grace without responding to it than it is for a basement to accumulate rainwater. In fact, I daresay that for a congregation richly graced by God not to respond with ministry in the world is for that congregation to court spiritual destruction.

"Lent" comes from the Middle English word for "spring." It is related etymologically to "lengthen," as in the lengthening of daylight we experience in springtime in the northern hemisphere. We, in the moist Midwest, know spring to be typically a season of abundant rain. So let it be a metaphor for us. As we begin in our Lenten journey, may we reflect on the ways in which God showers us with grace and make a renewed commitment to respond, by directing our response to grace outward in the world.

Lent at the Cathedral Bookstore

Talking and listening to God this
Lenten season: achieving inner silence

We pray in community, with our family, and when we are alone. Using words, whether spoken or sung, we connect and communicate with God. Contemplative prayer, however, refers to the practice of praying to achieve inner silence—listening to God. This introspective form of prayer can often be achieved through the use of devotional aids. The Cathedral Bookstore has these items available and several book resources, of course, to assist you this Lenten season.

Handheld Comfort Cross

This olive wood palm cross is not only smooth to touch, but comfortably rests in the hand of those who seek assurance and during times of private devotions. In the Holy Land, the native olive tree has been a source of oil for nourishment; healing; and anointment since ancient times. Still today, Christians in Bethlehem and Jerusalem carve its wood to remind us of Jesus and the story of our salvation. These are wonderful to hold and beautiful to gift to someone.

Labyrinth

Labyrinths assist with centering and focusing your mind, spirit and body. We have several sizes of the Chartres Labyrinth. The palm-sized, pewter labyrinth can be carried along on a morning walk or displayed on a desk or table. It includes a wooden bead decorated stylus for 'walking' the labyrinth and comes in a drawstring pouch. A large, wooden labyrinth is the perfect size your lap or a table. When not in use, display it on an easel or hang on the wall. A fabric style is easy to roll up and take with you anywhere your travels take you.

Anglican Prayer Beads

Prayer beads are symbolic of the four seasons in the solar year; the seven seasons of the Christian year; and the 33 years Jesus lived on earth. The circle formed by the beads and the number of times one prays the beads (three) represents the trinity. Our Anglican prayer beads are handmade in the U.S. and can be ordered in many designs. Bead styles include wood, pearl and a variety of stones. Cross styles and metal type can also vary on each bead set. See our styles in the store or go online and select your favorite and we will order it in for you (www.fullcirclebeads.com).

Icons

It is the incarnation of Christ (God made visible) that has become the theological foundation of an icon. Icons invite divine connection through symbolic pictorial language. Icons are deeply rooted in the gospel and have been cherished and venerated by Christians from the earliest times. We have numerous samples of icons we can order framed or unframed. Small sample cards allow you to select the artist's style and the icon that appeals to you the most.

Treasurer's Report

Jan. MTD	Budgeted MTD	Actual MTD
Income	$ 103,350	$ 101,252
Expenses	$ 118,862	$ 118,403
Net Total	$ (15,512)	$ (17,151)

The 2011 year has started out very well with pledges above the month of January 2010 and the total income being about $9,600 ahead of January 2010. This is a very positive first month. Expenses for the month of January 2011 were also below the amount in January 2010; however, the major item relates to the Diocesan assessment. In January 2010, the Diocesan assessment also included an amount relating to the prior year of 2009. Adjusting for the Diocesan assessment item, the expenses were fairly comparable between January 2010 and January 2011.

We continue to receive pledge cards. If you have not yet made a pledge, we certainly would appreciate your making a pledge for 2011. Your pledge truly assists us in planning for the 2011 year.

Maison de Naissance celebrates sixth year

Maison de Naissance currently employs four midwives who provide free services to the rural population in Haiti near Les Cayes. The amount of services provided is remarkable. They have delivered 634 babies, provided 4,890 pre natal visits, and 2,447 well baby visits.

This is a staggering accomplishment in a country destroyed by the January 2010 earthquake, suffering destruction from hurricane Tomas and undergoing political turmoil. In addition to the services offered the hope and concern shown at MN has an immeasurable impact on the lives of women and their children the area.

Please continue to keep the people of Haiti in your prayers as they struggle with the hardships around them. Also celebrate the care MN provides.
