ROM THE DEAN

The time to gather dried palm leaves has arrived. This ritual is part annual harvest and part hunt. One dried palm is found behind a depiction of the Madonna and Child which hangs in our front hallway. Several adorn crosses and icons throughout the house, and a couple reside in a prayer book and Bible, all gathered and placed in a neat bundle. But later, looking for the television remote, I spy a palm that has fallen to the floor behind a table, clearly neglected. I didn't notice that it had been missing from its former place of honor for weeks or months. Later, opening a drawer looking for a pen, I found a small palm cross tucked away, out of sight. I honestly do not know how many Lents and have come and gone since it ended up there.

Such is the reality of our life of faith. Some commandments, some teachings, some baptismal promises are honored, evident in our lives, our piety and our works of service. They shine forth, drawing attention not to ourselves but to Christ the Light of the World.

But like palms tucked away out of sight or those which fall to the floor and are neglected, we know there are those things, done and left undone, which must be confronted, confessed, and purged from us.

On the great fast day, ashes created from palms both honored and neglected will be traced upon on sinners just like me. This simple cross of ash signals a sincere desire to change, and assures us and the world of God's never-failing love, mercy, and forgiveness. From litany of penitence to confession and absolution, from the peace to the dismissal, the parable of The Prodigal Child is re-enacted, and is renamed The Parable of the Forgiving Father. We are found like a neglected palms covered with dust behind the couch. We are lifted up, washed with baptismal water and restored to the beloved child of God.

Gathering palm leaves is part harvest, part hunt. So is Lent. The Lord Almighty is relentless, searching until we are home again. And once we are reassured of our worth, our inheritance, and our mission, we are sent forth to seek, and serve and bring others into the fold — especially those > most neglected, like the palm covered in dust or tucked out of sight. The feast of grace begins with a fast, the garment of salvation is adorned with ash, the way of the cross is the way of life.

> Eternal Lord of Love, behold your Church walking once more the pilgrim way of Lent. With my love in Christ,

Terry+

LORD, bless to me this Lent ... Suffer me never to think that I have knowledge enough to need no teaching, wisdom enough to need no correction, talents enough to need no grace, goodness enough to need no progress, humility enough to need no repentance, devotion enough to need no quickening, strength sufficient without they Spirit; Lest, standing still, I fall back evermore.

Ministry discernment at the Cathedral

Have you ever wondered, "What sort of outreach ministry would I want to engage at this time and in its particular location?" The Social Action Committee here at the cathedral is asking you just that. We've entered into a time of discernment, the result of which we hope and pray will be a ministry through which all parishioners are able to experience God in their lives through the act of reaching out to others.

As of the first of this calendar year, the Rent Assistance Program that we have supported for several years has reached a conclusion. The nature of that program was that only two to three parishioners at a time could be engaged in this ministry.

Priscilla Brown, the Rent Assistance Program's coordinator and manager for the past three years summed up the committee's feelings with this observation: "I've been touched, humbled, and moved by engaging with people through this program. This experience has changed me, but I want that experience to be available to everyone in the parish." This gives voice to a considerable part of our vision of future ministry here at the Cathedral — that all of us have the opportunity to engage and to be changed.

The Social Action Committee would like to encourage you to share with us any thoughts and ideas about ministry possibilities that you might have. We also ask that you keep us in your prayers as we try to listen for God's voice in the life of this parish..

Keep Maison de Naissance close to your heart and in your prayers

Thank you for keeping Maison de Naissance and Haiti in the forefront of your thoughts and prayers while they continue to face the awesome challenges following the earthquake; and by sharing your concern, asking how to help, and seeking updates on MN and their cherished family and friends.

MN continues to need financial support to maintain their daily operations. Medications, fuel, supplies and food - already difficult to obtain in Haiti - continue to be scarce. Prices for these essentials are skyrocketing, and they will continue to be difficult to obtain. MN must attempt to stay stocked and prepared, so they may continue to care for the mothers and babies who need their programs and services.

Contributions to MN may be made online at their website: www.maisondenaissance.org or mailed directly to their local KC office (Maison de Naissance, 6247 Brookside Blvd Suite 224 Kansas City, MO 64113; 816-812-7100).

There also remains significant need for financial support of emergency relief efforts in Haiti: food, water, shelter and medical services provided by trained volunteers and professionals. MN has suggested supporting organizations that are on the ground and poised to assist with these immediate relief efforts in and around Port au Prince:

American Red Cross: www.redcross.org

- The Global Orphan Project (Powered by C3): www.theglobalorphanproject.org
- Episcopal Relief and Development: www.er-d.org
- Partners in Health: www.pih.org

In response to requests for updates, MN has suggested the following blog site: haitiearth. blogspot.com. They ask everyone to use the comment feature to post their updates, questions, thoughts and concerns. Maintaining this > dialogue in a centralized location will allow easy and efficient ac-

Maison de Naissance cess to multiple sources and ease e-mailbox congestion. MN will continue to add meaningful posts as they have more concrete updates to share.

Haiti needs you. MN needs you. There are countless ways to help, and they thank you for considering the options shared above. Thank you for your thoughts, prayers, and contributions, and for sharing this message. Let us all be guided by Haiti's motto: L'union fait la force — unity is strength.

A Celebration of the Feast Day of

ABSALOM JONES

Saturday, February 13 • 11:00 a.m. Cathedral Nave

ALL ARE WELCOME!

Reception with Black History Exhibit follows the service. Event is co-sponsored by the Diocese of West Missouri and the St. Andrews/St. Augustine's Racial Reconciliation Committee.

Celebrant: The Rt. Rev. Barry Howe • Preacher: The Rev. Kenneth L. Chumbley

The Rev. Kenneth L. Chumbley

The Rev. Kenneth L. Chumbley serves as rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Springfield, Mo. Before becoming rector there in January 1995, he served as rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Johnson City, N.Y., and as assistant rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Bowling Green, Ky., and Episcopal chaplain at Western Kentucky University.

He has been a supporter of racial reconciliation throughout his lifetime.

Shortly after his graduation from University of Louisville, he directed the university's Black Oral History Project and researched Louisville's history of segregation and integration. In the process, he conducted dozens of interviews with civil rights activists, and many of the interviews still are being used by historians today.

Ten years ago, he helped found The Interfaith Alliance in Springfield, which today includes both white and African-American Christian congregations as well as a local synagogue and the Islamic Center. Over the years, the group has hosted suppers and seminars and built two Habitat for Humanity houses.

In addition, Father Chumbley participated in a clerical ad hoc group in the Ozarks that worked to educate congregations about white supremacist groups. When a Jewish cemetery in Springfield was defaced with neo-Nazi graffiti a few years ago, he was among the clergy who led their congregations in a public witness for love at the cemetery and re-hallowed the sacred ground.

Father Chumbley is a native of Louisville, Ky., and a graduate of the University of Louisville. He earned his master's in divinity at The General Theological Seminary in New York City and is completing a master's degree in English at Missouri State University.

He is married to Penny Gordon-Chumbley. They have a daughter and two granddaughters. You can visit his blog at www.onepriestsblog.Blogspot.com.

Defining Moments in Anglicanism: Who we are now is shaped by what we were then Anglicanism throughout the world spread in no small part through the colonial efforts of Great Britain during the 18th and 19th centuries. The Episcopal Church is one example, but so are the Anglican provinces we find throughout South America, Asia and Africa. What are some of the defining moments in English Church history that shaped, for good or for ill, the Anglican Communion we know today, and what might be some of the historical bases for the challenges we now encounter? Join Dr. Elaine Reynolds, professor of history at William Jewell College, member of Grace Church Liberty, and long-time friend of the Cathedral, for what promises to be a fascinating exploration.

Cathedral sponsors annual foster children's Christmas party

The Cathedral attempted to make real the spirit of Christmas for about 120 Kansas City area foster children by organizing and underwriting our third annual Family Advocates Christmas Party. The 2009 event was a "Bowling with Santa" party held Sunday, December 20 at Laurel Lanes in Raytown.

Approximately 200 attendees, including the children's foster families, had photo opportunities with Santa, bowled or played table games with family members or some of Santa's helpers, enjoyed hot dogs, soft drinks, and munched on cookies and candies provided by Cathedral committee members. In addition, the children received goody bags and Christmas necklaces to carry the cheer beyond the event. Laurel Lanes owners also graciously donated gift certificates for future free bowling for the foster families.

John Hornbeck, Cathedral member and designated spokesperson for Santa, commented, "This was such a wonderful example of what Christmas should indeed be about — bringing joy to others."

Coletta Green, a spokesperson for Family Advocates said, "On behalf of the foster children and Family Advocates, I want to thank Grace and Holy Trinity Cathedral. This party was a success on many levels. It was a wonderful event that everyone enjoyed. Many of our families commented on how it brought their family together." Green added, "One of my foster fathers even told me, that he never thought he could find an activity that would bring his entire family together and have this much fun."

Cathedral volunteers who served as party hosts included Terri and Doug Curran, Vangie Rich, John and Sandra Hornbeck, David Pierson, Ruth Finet, Gary Bennett, Lori Childs and Carson Finet. Funding for the event was provided from the Social Action Committee budget.

The party benefited foster families who are part of the Family Advocates foster care program operated by St. Luke's Hospital—Crittenton Children's Center in partnership with Catholic Charities of Kansas City. Family Advocates is foster care contract agency for the State of Missouri Division of Family Services.

The month income was nearly equal to the budget. While pledges were up, the amount received in plate was down considerably from the budget and actual 2008 primarily due to the inclement weather during the holidays. The total expenditures were below budget and 2008 actual. The actual results were break even. For the year of 2009, the impact of cost reductions of approximately $228,000 were realized. Increased revenue from pledges during the year and the lower expenditures resulted in a positive $61,698 for the year. We certainly appreciate all of the efforts made with respect to the financial condition of the church and its mission. We are also grateful for the pledges received to date and for pledges that have not yet been submitted.

Book Review

Now It Is Winter written by Eileen Spinelli

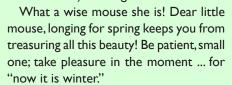

Looking for a poetic winter story while cuddling up with your special little one? Well, pull up a blanket and snuggle in for Now It Is Winter written by Eileen Spinelli. This is a great read-aloud story full of alliteration that creates a musical, lilting style that rhythmically soothes the listener like a lullaby. Not only is it a sweet story for quiet time, but it also teaches a valuable lesson about patience and enjoying the gifts of today.

Although the book is written for ages 4-8, it is a message we all need to hear: The story begins ... "Will spring ever come?" (How many times do we ask that question these days?) The inquiring young mouse keeps asking this same question and wonders when he will enjoy all the beauties of spring again. He recalls the joys of blackberries and cream and steep grassy hills to hearing the sleepy sound of soft rain. Although he longs for the change of season, wise mother mouse points out just as many treasures to be delighted in today. She reminds him of oatmeal with butter and brown sugar and sailing downhill on a sled lifted on snowy laughter to sleet twinkling down sprinkling the roof that sounds like silver.

The playful illustrations by Mary Newell DePalma invite the reader and listener to converse about the various scenes taking place. Children love to examine the detailed dwellings of the mice depicted throughout the story. This family of mice is kept cozy underground with pink fuzzy slippers, pillow fights and a game of checkers. Meanwhile, the wintry scenes contrast their home but are just as inviting with ice skating, snow angels and snowmen (or 'snowmouse') building.

In Children's Formation, the GHTC Bookstore will host story time February 7 with Somebody Loves You, Mr. Hatch by Eileen Spinelli. This Valentine-themed story describes how the simple knowledge that one is loved changes everything. It's a heartwarming tale about caring for one another and reaching out with love. Join us for a story, discussion and themed activities.

MN survived the 7.0 earthquake Tuesday, January 12, and the ensuing aftershocks, but their indigenous staff of 30 and thousands of patients are preparing for the long-term effects of the earthquake, which are rapidly unfolding.

Medications, supplies and fuel — already difficult to obtain in Haiti — are becoming scarce. Prices for these essentials have already skyrocketed and have become increasingly difficult to obtain. Your financial support is critical in helping MN continue to provide its services to mothers and babies — without interruption.

Maison de Naissance (MN) is located in a rural area just outside of Les Cayes, 100 miles southwest of Port au Prince, and is well known throughout the community as a leader in providing maternal healthcare.
